

Oppose Opening Reservation To Hunters

ARCHERY HUNTING MEETS FAVOR

At a meeting of the Kiwanis club March 24th, the question of opening the Hanson State Military reservation to deer hunters came up for discussion.

Esbern Hanson, representing the Rasmus Hanson estate, asked for an expression of the members of the club on the question. He stated that it was claimed that 200 deer died from starvation at that place during the winter of 1936. He said that he understood that a number of dead deer were found within a given area and from that number it was computed that within the 18,000 acres that the total dead was 200. This method of computation Mr. Hanson believed unreliable. And further he believed that instead of the deer dying from starvation that many died from gunshot wounds.

He called attention to the fact that 40 years ago when forests were heavy and there were many deer that food conditions were not as good as they are at this time. Forty years ago the ground was covered for inches deep with pine needles and there was no deer food to be had from that source, still starved deer were almost unknown.

Many of the members expressed themselves as feeling that even tho a few deer might die from old age, that their presence was worth more as a tourist attraction than an attraction for hunters.

A vote by the members was taken and resulted in unanimous opposition to the opening of the park for hunting. Mr. Hanson said that he intends to personally investigate the food question just as soon as there is a season when there may be some doubt as to its sufficiency.

The reservation would make a grand place to set aside for archery deer hunting and Mr. Hanson believed that such a plan would meet with no objection on the part of the heirs of the Hanson estate. And the pursuit of deer by archers would have a tendency of driving them out of the reservation and reduce the deer herd within that area.

Big Crowd Attends Theatre Re-opening

The Rialto Theatre re-opened Saturday night to a crowd that must have been very gratifying to its manager and proprietor, Mr. George Olson. While, without a doubt, theater-goers were more than anxious to attend a good show after several weeks following a dark house, which was being completely renovated—enlarged and beautified. Still there were other reasons for the big attendance; Grayling folk have a genuine pride in its unusually fine motion picture house and therefore were interested in seeing the improvements.

Few small towns can boast of a picture house that shows the very latest films screened with the last word in sound apparatus and equipment. Everyone is aware of this and appreciate the fact that it is a splendid asset to the community. The people here welcome progressiveness and will encourage any efforts to make "Grayling the only town on the map."

Mozelle Bennett Violin Ensemble

COMING TO GRAYLING TUESDAY, APRIL 6TH AT MICHELSON MEMORIAL CHURCH.

Probably no finer musical talent has ever been displayed in this region than that of the Mozelle Bennett Sawyer violin ensemble which will be heard in Michelson Memorial church Tuesday, April 6 at 8:00 p. m.

This group of 10 talented young musicians has attracted such widespread attention that it has been invited to represent the state of Michigan at the biennial convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs which convenes in Indianapolis on April 24.

These boys and girls are all studying under Mrs. Sawyer, of Traverse City, who has a nationwide reputation as a concert violinist. After graduating from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music with highest honors she spent two years in the Master Class of Eugene Ysaye. Later she also studied with Leopold Auer. She was on the faculty of the Cincinnati Conservatory and later was head of the violin department of the College of New Rochelle, N. Y. During six years of concert work in New York City she appeared at Town Hall, Aeolian Hall, and Carnegie Hall. After a successful concert season in Europe she returned to Traverse City to make her home.

Unlike many artists, Mrs. Sawyer excels also in the field of teaching. During the early days of her musical training she taught a large class in violin in Frankfurt.

The group which she has trained for the past two years has already given concerts in a number of neighboring cities and will appear in Midland and Detroit before going to Indianapolis. Their program will include: Concerto in A minor, Vivaldi; Sonata, Dvorak; Concerto No. 3, Bach. These compositions are all played from memory—a difficult and unusual thing to do, especially with the Bach number.

The program is being sponsored by the choir of Michelson Memorial church and this is sure to be a great musical treat for Grayling music lovers. The proceeds are to be used to help pay for choir gowns. Admission prices will be adults 35c; children 25c.

Don Reynolds Resigns From M. P. S.

ENTERS SALES DEPARTMENT OF SORENSON FURNITURE STORE

After 5 years as bookkeeper and salesman and 7 years service as local manager and salesman, Don Reynolds has resigned from the Michigan Public Service Co. to take over the sales management of Sorenson Furniture store. His resignation was sent in some time ago to take effect April 1st.

In June, 1930, Don succeeded Sigwald Hanson as manager of the local division of the Michigan Public Service Co. and the public and the company have learned to appreciate his splendid service.

Everyone knows that there are always complaints coming into the office of a public utility company, whether or not they are justified. And we have to hand it to Don that his customers were accorded polite and courteous treatment no matter how reasonable or unreasonable the complaint was. He was always ready to explain every detail to the satisfaction of the customer. And whenever the Company may have been in error it was just as readily corrected as the customer would have been willing to concede that he was wrong.

Don worked diligently for the M.P.S. Company and 1936 was a banner year for the sales department of the local store which serves only 550 customers. Six sales campaigns were successfully put across in Grayling in 1936, winding up the year with a successful range and water-heater campaign in which the winners who sold 10 units were given a free trip to Chicago.

From the record established we know he will be just as efficient in his new responsibility. He is an experienced salesman, and while the furniture business may be new to him, selling is not and we wish him success in his new line of work.

Arrangements and agreements between Don and the owners have been completed and we predict the people will see an improved condition in this store in the coming months.

Tax-Payers Strike!

Taxes, taxes, taxes. Seemingly there is no halt. No longer is there even talk of tax reduction. Property taxes, gasoline taxes, sales taxes, income taxes, old age pension taxes, unemployment taxes, inheritance taxes—taxes on everything for the main purpose of making more political jobs. The next big sit-down strike may be a taxpayers strike. Business men who have to spend about a day a week toiling over tax reports might be the first to join although it is the consumer who finally pays.—Ingham County News, Mason, Mich.

Supervisors Discuss Welfare Problems

REPRESENTATIVES 40 COUNTIES IN ATTENDANCE WEDNESDAY

Grayling was lively Wednesday when delegations of supervisors, poor commissioners and county officials of 40 counties of Michigan met in Grayling to discuss the merits and demerits of legislative bills that are up for enactment for the control of welfare matters of the state.

The meeting was opened at 10:30 a. m. in the courthouse and it required every seat and many extra chairs to accommodate the delegates.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. M. S. Geison of Flint, president of the State Association of Superintendents of the Poor.

The merits of legislative house bills Nos. 227 and 249, relative to the creation of welfare commissions, were discussed. These bills would create welfare commissions and prescribe their power and duties.

These acts would place welfare authority in the hands of county commissions and take them out of centralized state and governmental agencies. Excessive costs of operation of the present set-up of welfare agencies came in for a lot of condemnation.

Twenty-nine counties in northern Michigan were represented at the meeting. Resolutions endorsing the above house bills—227 and 249—were adopted by unanimous vote with exception that delegates from Houghton county voted against house bill No. 227 but in favor of 249. The delegate from Houghton county maintained that wherein many southern Michigan counties had only about 5 to 9% welfare conditions, their county had as high as 46%. Under the present set-up their county failed to receive adequate funds for caring for the many dependent families. The superintendent of one of the schools of Houghton county stated that the pupils of his school up to the 6th grade averaged 6½ pounds underweight, due to the lack of proper nourishment.

The meeting was marked by serious and deliberate consideration of the grave problems that confronted the people of Michigan in the matter of welfare. It was claimed that less than 50% of the money appropriated for welfare purposes reached the families for whom it was intended, due to the extravagant

Maple Forest Woman Takes Own Life

A sad death occurred in Maple Forest township Friday afternoon when Mrs. Sarah Benroth, age 41, wife of Jess Benroth took her own life by shooting herself through the right temple with a .32 revolver. Mrs. Benroth is reported to have been in ill health for a couple of years and of late had complained more than usual, so it is assumed that she became despondent and in one of these fits of despondency committed the deed.

The tragedy occurred at about 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Benroth was busy doing his usual evening chores when he heard the gun report and ran to the house to find his wife in a dying condition, and she passed away shortly afterwards.

Mr. and Mrs. Benroth moved to Maple Forest from Gladwin about four years ago.

The remains were taken to Saginaw for interment Tuesday.

THURSDAY, APRIL 1, 1937

NEXT MONDAY IS ELECTION

Good government depends to no small degree upon the type of men we elect to fill the offices. Monday in every county in Michigan elections will be conducted.

The candidates for state offices will claim part of this voting responsibility. Five party tickets make up the ballot, as follows: Due to the success of the Democratic ticket last fall, that party ticket appears in the first column of the ballot and the Republican party ticket is shifted to the second column. The third, fourth and fifth columns are occupied by the Socialist, American and Commonwealth party tickets respectively.

Most important of the state offices are those of justices (2) of the supreme court, superintendent of public instruction and state highway commissioner. While many actively partisan advocates are asking the people to vote straight Democratic or straight Republican, we believe the voters are well able to do their own choosing.

Contests for township offices occur in only a few townships while in the others only one ticket appears on the ballot. A list of these appears elsewhere in this issue of the Avalanche.

Five councilmen will be elected to administer the affairs of the City of Grayling, to be selected from among a group of 10 candidates. These names too appear elsewhere in this paper. The present incumbents whose terms expire are Chris W. Olsen, Frank Sales, Roy O. Milnes, Jesse Schoonover, and Carl Jensen. Each of these are candidates for re-election except Frank Sales who did not choose to serve again at this time due to personal business responsibilities.

This council is responsible for the engaging of a city manager, who in turn, as the title implies, is responsible for the conduct of city affairs, and the appointment of city clerk and treasurer, night marshal and the hiring of city employees. George Granger is city manager, succeeding C. A. Miller, and we believe has done a good job.

Those elected to membership of the city council select from among their number a mayor. And the mayor so elected automatically becomes a member of the county board of supervisors. One other is appointed to represent the city on that board. Last year Chris Olsen was the mayor and, with Frank Sales, served as supervisors. These are very important responsibilities and we trust that the city of Grayling in the next two years is going to be just as well represented on the board of supervisors as it has been in the past. Grayling is a corporation with a property value of $700,000.00 and citizens generally are vitally concerned as to whom will be elected to conduct its affairs.

We urge every voter to get out next Monday and cast his ballot. Let's not be indifferent to this responsibility and privilege, for your vote is important and goes just as far as the vote of any other citizen.

Please vote and ask your neighbor to do so.

VOTING STRAIGHT

Many independents and Republicans who otherwise have felt disposed to favor the re-election of Murray D. Van Wagoner, now resent the implication in the Highway Commissioner's publicity that if they vote for Mr. Van Wagoner they must vote the straight Democratic ticket.

These voters feel that the offices of Supreme Court Justices and Superintendent of Public Instruction are more important, or at least just as important, as that of State Highway Commissioner and that any attempt to inject the "vote straight Democratic" idea into the campaign to save Mr. Van Wagoner from defeat is an insult to the intelligence of the people of Michigan.

There is a state-wide non-partisan movement to re-elect Justices Louis H. Fead and Walter H. North and Superintendent of Public Instruction Eugene B. Elliott, whose names appear on the Republican ticket. Partisanship does not enter into the support being given these candidates because the qualifications of the men and the importance of the offices far transcend any party consideration. They have demonstrated their fitness for the offices they now hold and by every consideration of good government they should be re-elected by a tremendous majority.

For this reason Mr. Van Wagoner's attempt to defeat them while he is asking for another term for himself is being resented by a large number of fair-minded people. The feeling is general that the Highway Commissioner is endangering his own chances of re-election by his unwarranted attempt to defeat Justices Fead and North and Dr. Elliott. As a matter of fact every office to be filled at the April election, except that of Highway Commissioner, is a non-political office. For the first time in history the Highway department is now political. They should be considered such by the voters and where the present incumbent have given satisfactory service to the state they should be re-elected.

GOVERNOR MURPHY'S DILEMMA

A strange and illogical as it may seem, the result of the spring election April 5 will be generally held to be an endorsement or a repudiation of Governor Frank Murphy. If the Democrats win, they will herald the result as an evidence of approval by the people of Michigan of Murphy's handling of the strike situation. If the Republican ticket is victorious, it will evidence a lack of confidence in the Governor's ability to cope with the dilemma in which the state finds itself as a result of the serious and far-reaching labor troubles.

This is as it should be. There is no other way the people of the state can express themselves by concerted action except through this election. While none of the offices to be voted upon is directly connected with the executive functions of the state government, the April balloting will be the politician's means of deciding which way the wind is blowing.

This puts the Governor in an extremely delicate situation. It is generally believed that he placed the National Guard at Flint to protect the strikers. His failure to evacuate the plants when the Guard first arrived cost the taxpayers of the state upwards of a million dollars. But the sit-downers approved his action.

Now the sit-down strike situation has so demoralized and prostrated business that the demand for positive action has become general and many feel that the dilatory conduct of the Governor at Flint has led to the wide-spread and unrestricted strike debacle of today.

So the Governor becomes an important figure in the spring election although his office is not involved. Those who endorse Murphy's conduct in the strike will vote the Democratic ticket. Those who are opposed to his conduct in handling the labor situation will vote the Republican ticket.

The 'Welfare' Bills.

(By Miles M. Callaghan, Senator, 28th District).

The Legislature is being flooded with telegrams, letters and petitions from all over the state requesting that Senate Bills No. 111-118, inclusive, so-called Welfare bills, be enacted into law.

These letters, petitions, etc., have caused the Senate, at least, to feel that a propaganda mill has been established through interested persons who are not very familiar with the bills referred to.

With the exceptions of Senate Bills No. 111 and 112, there does not seem to be much opposition to the bills as presented, but Senate Bills No. 111 and 112 are proposed to revamp and create an entirely new setup; to replace the various agencies now performing this service in the counties and cities and in principle this is commendable. There are several bills introduced covering this subject but I think House Bill 227, which is known as the "State Association of Supervisors Bill" seems the best as applied especially to rural Michigan. It is generally agreed that the present expensive politically minded and operated Emergency Relief setup must be demobilized and the large number of professional welfare workers taken from the welfare payroll and House Bill 227 seems to be the best agency to do that thing. There is a feeling in the Legislature that the propaganda now being spread throughout the state that has resulted in this large number of letters, petitions and telegrams has been inspired by this organization of professional welfare workers.

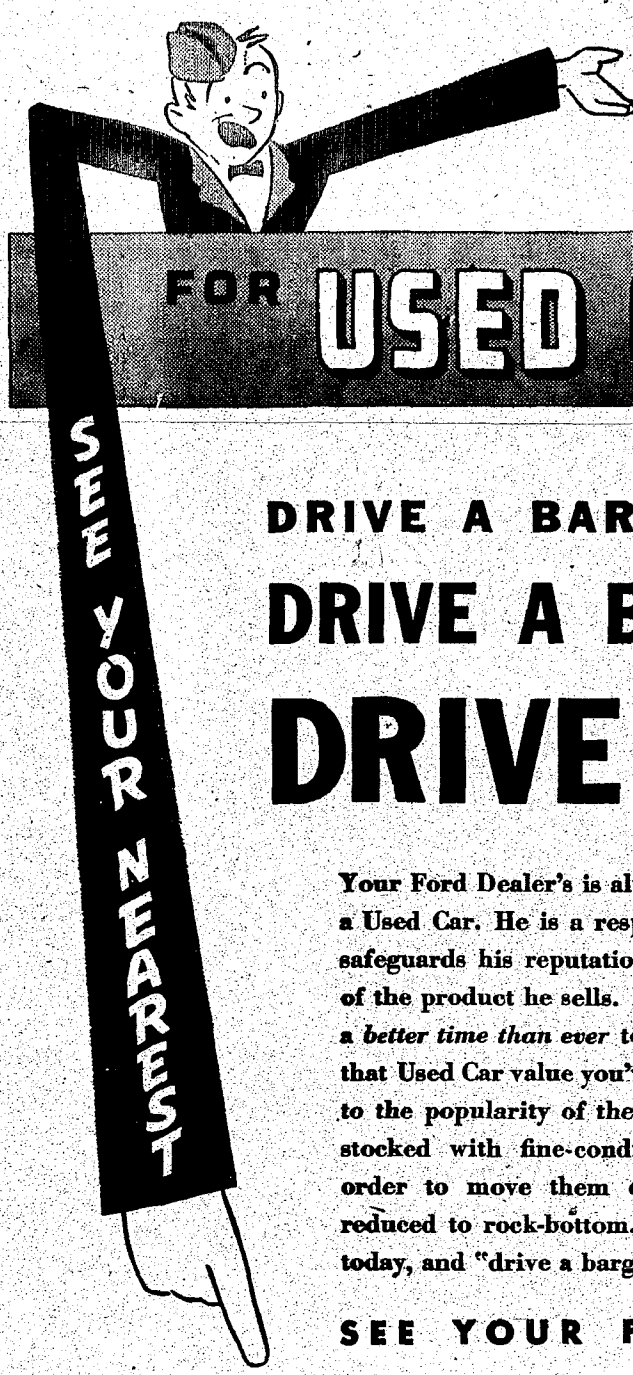

I am convinced that a large majority of the Legislature wants the question of welfare and relief returned to the control of the counties and cities. It must be kept in mind, however, that the Federal Government will contribute quite a large sum of money for the payment of old age pensions, mothers' pensions and other joint State and Federal agencies, and of course, the State and Federal Government should have something to say about how this money is spent, but the counties are insisting that a large amount of money is being wasted by the present setup and that many persons are being encouraged to stay on the welfare rolls so that the jobs of the welfare workers might continue.

All of these bills, which include Senate Bills No. 111-118, are the result of the report of the Study Committee appointed by Governor Fitzgerald in 1935, and was unanimously agreed to except Senate Bills 111 and 112. A minority report was made on these bills and that is what has caused the discussion and the introduction of other measures.

The State Association of Supervisors met in Lansing on January 25th and, with more than six hundred Supervisors present, rejected the majority report of the Commission and adopted resolutions that now cover House Bill 227. They are determined that the distribution of so-called welfare, so far as food, clothing, shelter and other activities of a similar kind, must be controlled entirely by the county or city out of state funds contributed for that purpose, and if the sentiment that I have sounded out is a criterion, I am of the opinion that this is what the people want, but it must be kept in mind that none of these bills have yet emerged from the Committee and nobody knows what will be done to them by way of amendment when they show up on the floor of the House, so people who have been approached and requested to petition the Legislature, either by letter or other method, to adopt these bills 111-118, should be very careful until they know exactly what the bills will mean to the community in which they live.

The balance of the bills referred to, while they are considered welfare measures, have to do with transferring authority from one county agency to another, taking the administration of the mothers' pensions from the Probate Court to another agency, transferring the administration of old age assistance to the County and State Department of Public Welfare, eliminating the citizenship requirement for old age pensions, enlarging the jurisdiction of the Probate Court with respect to hospitalization of afflicted adults, transferring the control of the School for the Deaf, the School for the Blind and the Employment Institution for the Blind to the State Board of Education. It has now been conducted under the State Welfare Commission and a revision of the Hospital Law (asylums) separating the Commission from the State Welfare Department.

These bills are all being carefully studied by the Committee on Welfare and Relief and many hearings are being held, and it is my suggestion that before you sign a petition or write letters to your Senators or Representatives with reference to these bills, you carefully study them and find out definitely if the bills have been amended by the Committee and possibly their usefulness destroyed, and also keep in mind that there are a large number of persons on the public payroll that do not want to be separated from this payroll and will attempt, and are attempting, to maintain this present expensive system of welfare relief.

It is my opinion that some kind of an agreement will be reached where the expenditure of the large sum of money will be placed under local control. Already sixteen million dollars have been appropriated by the Legislature for this proposition in the last year and the department is now asking for another million dollars. This is a large sum of money and I am convinced that a saving of at least 25% could be made and the recipients of welfare would be much better cared for if this matter could be administered and under local control. Certainly the State of Michigan cannot continue with these largely increasing costs if the thousands of persons who have been committed to the deplorable conditions now existing are to be corrected.

The Arc de Triomphe

The Arc de Triomphe was begun in 1806 by Napoleon, who intended it as a monument to the glory of his army after the battle of Austerlitz. The great arch was not completed and inaugurated until 30 years later. It cost the state over nine million francs, because of its substructure, which extends 45 feet below the ground. The figures in the great frieze running around the top are over six feet high and represent a departure and return of the French armies. The handsome arch suffered badly at different periods of its existence at the hands of friend and foe alike, notably perhaps at the fall of the Second Empire, while the Commune raged in the city. It was calculated that for three weeks 90 shells were fired at it daily. With the restoration of law and order the Arc de Triomphe was completely restored. To reach the summit 273 steps have to be climbed.

Habits of Wasps

Wasps sleep soundly in the dark and are sluggish on a cloudy day. Unlike other insects, when they are awake they breathe by a noticeable "telescoping" of the abdomen back and forth. When they are asleep they breathe like other insects, by a slow, molecular diffusion of air already in the tracheae. The first activity of a wasp after waking is to resume the telescope type of breathing.

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes
By JEAN NEWTON

ABOUT THE "THINGS WE WANT TO DO"

DEAR JEAN NEWTON—What can we do to keep in sight the things we want to do and which are so easily crowded out in the routine of daily living?

"I cannot claim to be bowed down by work or responsibility. In fact I think I have as much leisure as most fortunate women. I have a small apartment, a good maid and no children. My mother requires some of my time and a very little more goes to what I call regular good works. And yet I never seem to get done the things I want to do. 'It should like each season to see the accomplishment of something that will broaden or improve my mind. Every summer I determine the next year to take a course or two in a subject in which I am interested. And yet the year goes by without my doing it.

"Why? I just get immersed in the ordinary routine and suddenly realize that the time has passed. The round of luncheons and bridges don't mean so much to me, and it isn't as if I should have to isolate myself to do some of the other things. But first every season there is the 'fixing up' and getting into the social swing again, and then there is preparing for the holiday days and recovering from them, and so on, so that I seem always to be waiting until 'after' some occasion or other—and never get started on what I want to do. I think I'm not the only one, and it's a subject worth airing."

The reader who has written us is not the only one who can't see the woods for the trees—that is the vista of the woods of life because the trees of daily routine crowd life and obscure the view. Most of us in this hectic day are victims of that same thing. Routine duties or amusements keep us busy day in and day out and before we realize it another season or another year is gone with nothing to show for it in accomplishment or real enjoyment of anything important.

To some of us it does not matter. But to those of us who feel the need for growth, who have those "things we want to do" it is important. And there is no panacea or miracle to which we can turn. The only thing to do about it is the very simple thing of forcing ourselves to keep in sight those "things we want to do"—and to do them!

Shakespeare of Music

Several first editions of works by Ludwig von Beethoven, the German music composer who is sometimes called the "Shakespeare of Music," were found not long ago by a collector in a Budapest, Hungary, book shop. As the works bear marginal notes by the great Beethoven himself, they are worth a fortune, but the collector bought them for only 50 cents apiece.

STALEY HAUGH IN COLLEGE PLAY

Staley Haugh, student at Michigan State college and son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Haugh of Mason has the leading role in a play "Take My Advice" which is being presented at the Little Theatre in Lansing Wednesday and Thursday nights by the Theta Alpha Phi dramatic society. The Michigan State News in a recent issue stated "Dramatic talent at this school at the present time has reached a new high. Several of the players in the current production are extremely gifted in dramatic qualities. Such actors as Staley Haugh and Marston Busch have completely revolutionized acting at M. S. C. Both of the above mentioned players made their debut last fall with excellent performances in "The Late Christopher Bean." Their fine portrayals made such an impression that they were rewarded with leading roles in "Take My Advice." Mr. Haugh has recently been requested to write the script for a spring opera—Ingham County News, Mason.

Staley Haugh is well known in Grayling and each summer spends some time at the Lake Margrethe home of his uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mickelson of Mason. His friends here will be pleased to learn of his success. He is specializing in journalism in his college work.

Non-partisan News Letter
Michigan Press Association
By GENE ALLEMAN

LANSING—"Let Lansing do it" is still the popular cry in Michigan.

It is being heard daily as the state legislature in session here receives appeals from organized "pressure groups" to obtain state aid for their pet measures. If a group of voters back home wants more township roads, more library books, more school facilities, more welfare funds, more this and that, it is not long before someone proclaims: "Let's ask our state representative or senator to introduce a bill!"

Just as Michigan and the other 47 states have turned to Washington for help in feeding their unemployed and in solving their other depression problems, so Michigan groups are turning to Lansing for a helping hand.

Deserving Projects

It is very natural that after years of depression and an accompanying dearth of tax revenues that many tax-supported services should be in need of rehabilitation. . . modernization.

Sponsored by sincere and conscientious citizens, all anxious to see these projects receive special favor, are the following projects: Junior colleges—worth while; sponsors ask state aid of $2,000 annually for each college and $60 annually for each student.

Libraries need books and communities lack libraries; $1,250,000 annual state aid is asked. Modern schools are needed in many parts of the state; educators seek to increase the present state aid from $38,000,000 to $45,000,000.

More Township Roads

Township roads are of benefit to local residents: the $4,500,000 state aid to township roads would be increased to $6,500,000.

Old age pensions are recognized as meeting a modern need; the $2,000,000 state aid would be increased to $12,000,000.

Unemployed residents are a local problem; boost the state's share of direct relief from $9,000,000 to $12,000,000.

State's Own Problems

With organized pressure groups besieging representatives and senators for immediate state aid, it is apparent that the state's present $100,000,000 budget can easily become unbalanced if the legislature complies to such requests. The financial picture is already clouded due to the strike situation that has added millions to the welfare load and has curtailed sales tax revenue.

In the meantime, what about the state's own exclusive responsibility? This is everybody's business, of course, and consequently is often taken for granted.

Sub-Normals

Newspapers frequently carry news stories of outrages committed by sub-normals. . . morons. . . mental defectives.

Approximately 2,500 persons, who have been determined by the courts to be deserving of mental hospitalization and treatment, are at liberty in Michigan today. State institutions are overcrowded; facilities are lacking to care for more inmates.

During the past 10 years the state has postponed action in providing new buildings. Repairs have been few.

Fire Hazards?

At the state's home and training school at Lapeer for feeble-minded persons, hundreds of inmates are being housed in

Yet the waiting list numbers 1,279.

Higher Education

Among the items of "everybody's business" is that of higher education. The University of Michigan and the Michigan State College are dependent on the state for operating revenue.

The "growing pains" of the Michigan State College are causing administrative heads to grow grayer. Student enrollment has increased from 3,100 to 5,100 in two years: the 1935-36 biennial appropriation per student was $181; the student enrollment is 87 per cent Michigan's own sons and daughters.

The college bill, mindful of the 2,900 additional students, seeks to step up annual appropriations from $1,700,000 to $2,633,000.

The university bill asks for an increase of about 15 per cent, justified by a regular enrollment of around 10,000 students as compared with 9,572 two years ago.

Other State Institutions

On the list of "everybody's business" are other institutions, such as the Michigan College of Mines and Technology at Houghton, seeking $372,000 as compared with $316,000 at present; Michigan State Teachers College at Ypsilanti, asking $703,000 as compared with $554,000; Central State Teachers' college at Mt. Pleasant, $325,000 as compared with $215,000; Western State Teachers' college at Kalamazoo, $678,000 as compared with $542,000; Northern State Teachers' college at Marquette, $235,000 as compared with $169,000.

There are actual items taken from legislative bills.

Sit Downers Stand Up

"Michigan Mirror" presented a forecast last week, as whispered in capitol lobbies, that Gov. Frank Murphy was going to "sit down on the sit downers."

While official confirmation is lacking that it was Murphy who persuaded the beetled browed Lewis to change his mind, the Lansing State Journal at the capitol city made this interesting observation of facial expressions on the three conferees as they emerged before press representatives.

Chrysler—Happy, jubilant, grinning.

Lewis—Belligerent and "mad."

Murphy—Weary.

You can roll your own, mister.

Election Next Monday

With March's blizzard apparently out of the way and the sit-down epidemic waning slowly, Michigan voters are turning their attention again to the popular indoor sport of politics.

Next Monday brings an election at which those voters who go to the polls will elect two justices to the state supreme court, a superintendent of public instruction, a highway commissioner, and a handful of members for the university and state college boards.

The real interest in Monday's vote for most of Michigan citizens is the township election. That is a local affair. Lack of real issues in the state fight has made politicians apprehensive. And that goes for both parties, too.

TB Clinic Here
Wed., April 7th

Aiming at the provision of modern tuberculosis protection for a group most in need of it, a Christmas seal clinic bringing chest X-ray examinations to persons in Crawford county who have been exposed to a case of active tuberculosis will be held on Wednesday, April 7th, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association announced today. The clinic, to be financed with funds raised through the sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals, will be another step in the thorough check-up of tuberculosis contacts that is being carried on currently in the state by the Association.

For the past several weeks arrangements for the X-ray examinations have been in progress. District Department of Health No. 1, under the direction of Dr. T. R. Laughbaum, is co-operating with the Michigan Tuberculosis Association in the task of reaching all in the county who have been exposed to the disease. All contacts known to either organization are being urged to take advantage of the opportunity to "make sure" about tuberculosis. Admission cards have been distributed to those who are to be examined and the Association has explained that because of limited funds it will be possible now to provide an X-ray only for those who have been exposed to the disease. Officials of the Christmas seal organization are anxious, however, that any contact not reached during the preliminary arrangements communicate by mail at once with the Association's office in Lansing, or report for an interview when the clinic is held.

Undertaken following an extensive survey showing the urgent need for contact examination in Michigan, the Christmas seal contact clinics are being held this year in every part of the state. In gathering the names of those who have been exposed to the disease, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association interviewed over six hundred sanatorium patients who had come from areas in the state where contact check-up is not as adequate as in counties that own a sanatorium. It was found that 2,981 others had been in close contact with 615 sanatorium patients—an average of nearly five contacts per patient. More than half—1,703 in this small cross section group—had never been tuberculin tested or X-rayed.

"Such figures," said Dr. Bruce H. Douglas, "show the great necessity for the extensive work the Michigan Tuberculosis Association is carrying on among the contacts in Michigan. More than any other group they need a modern X-ray examination." The X-rays in Crawford county will be made with the Michigan Tuberculosis Association's own portable X-ray unit. The films will be referred then to medical experts for reading.

PRIVATE RECIPES

Then AND Now

Huispot, the national dish of Holland, dates back to Oct. 3rd, 1654, when the defeat of King Philip brought to an end eighty years of war with Spain. Here is a case where a proven private recipe has become public property, for Huispot—made of selected vegetables, meat and other ingredients—is a favorite dish today in the homes of Netherlands throughout the world. It must be good to have lived so long and to enjoy such widespread popularity.

Private recipes are important only when they produce something different and better than the ordinary. Today, Altes Lager is an outstanding example of this fact. Louis W. Schimmel, brewer for over half a century, sought for many years with untiring effort to perfect the private recipe to which Altes Lager is brewed. The final result of his labor brought immediate success for this now famous beer. Altes Lager has gained an enviable reputation far and wide for its superior quality and distinctive flavor. It is Mr. Schimmel's private recipe that produces this different and better beer and makes successful imitation impossible.

Respect for Electric Eel
The natives of South America have great respect for the electric eel, and some of them prize his flesh. An early naturalist relates how the Indians drove horses into jungle ponds inhabited by the high-voltage eels. After the eels had exhausted their storage batteries on the horses, they fell an easy prey. Sometimes, however, the Indians lost a horse which had been weakened by repeated shocks until it sank into the water. The common type of eel, known to every freshwater fisherman, breeds in the ocean. Young eels in the spring ascend rivers and streams by millions, sometimes traveling overland to infest every pond and tributary.
